GRADE LMINATE CREATES A CLEANER, SAFER AND HEALTHIER SPACE FOR YOUR LOVED ONES

The ENF is the most stringent formaldehyde emission grade for wood-based panels and finishing products. It signifies that minimum level of formaldehyde is added during production, and that formaldehyde emissions are extremely low, with a level of $\leq 0.025 \text{ mg/m}^3$. This level is significantly lower than other levels like E0 ($\leq 0.050 \text{ mg/m}^3$) and E1 ($\leq 0.124 \text{ mg/m}^3$), making ENF-compliant Laminates a safer choice for indoor environments.

MONTE

new & exclusive

MONTE is a curated range of decors, inspired by timber veneers. What captivates contemporary designers about these Italian decors is its bold black veining, which creates striking, unique patterns. While we aren't seeing a full-blown 1980s revival, the appetite for bold, statement-making interiors has undeniably returned. After years dominated by the safety of neutrals and simple wood, we've realized that the line between 'timeless' and 'boring' is thin.

Differentiating itself from traditional and classic acacias, The MANO invites us to a reinterpretation of this exotic wood, resulting in a softer and more contemporary final aesthetic, enriched by warm and natural tones.

Varied and quite close to the original material – the wood of the MANO is attractive because of its beautiful and slender areas, the small number of knot patterns, and the fact that it's almost indistinguishable from the acacia.

Remarkably elegant and versatile, it harmoniously integrates into any space, easily adapting to a variety of design styles. Its application is facilitated by its ability to combine naturally and harmoniously with different types of materials, adding a dose of sophistication and warmth to any interior.

LEGNO COLOGNE

New & exclusive

LEGNO COLOGNE is a ribbon-grained furniture decor with small knot details and the striking fibrous character typical of the wood. The restrained colouration that acacia is known for and the planked layout add up to a fine and elegant decor. Normally an acacia, when untreated, is rather greenish in color. That is why smoked material was used for this decor. The white pores and the slightly granular grain are typical. It is this power of the individual wood levels that makes the acacia look so special.

This decor stands out thanks to its special play of colors, that's emphasized even more due to its intense hues, and shows the soft and very fine texture typical of pear. The rippling growth lines and occasional side-cut crotch figure lend the material a lively touch.

The exquisite characteristics are typical of fruitwoods. It has a particularly classy and gentle look, thanks to the optically well-balanced and smooth material. It's a simple decor that can – as a result of its restrained structure – be interpreted in a modern way depending on the area of application.

GALICIA DENIM

Inspired by the pursuit of "spatial warmth", this decor draws on the inherent texture of diagonal weaving from natural fabrics. Its fibers are arranged in a gentle manner, creating soft layers under light and shadow, and conveying a sense of tranquility and strength through pure lines—perfectly aligning with the modern desire for "simplicity over complexity". Taking concise diagonal textile pattern as its core design language, it discards redundant decorations, featuring well-proportioned lines that are "soft yet structured". The inherent texture boasts a subtle luster, and the delicate play of light and shadow under different lighting conditions endows the flat surface with a three dimensional, breathable quality. Its "clean aesthetic" not only breaks the monotony of solid colors but also avoids the clutter of overly intricate patterns, achieving a seamless balance between aesthetics and functionality that resonates with the contemporary design trend of "less is more"

Endowed with an "inclusive" essence, it offers exceptional versatility. Materially, it harmonizes effortlessly with wood, metal, and unicolors, neutralizing their distinct characteristics while enhancing textural details. Stylistically, it integrates seamlessly with diverse aesthetics such as modern minimalism, Nordic, and light luxury, blending naturally into various home ambiances. It boasts a wide range of applicable scenarios, covering home spaces such as wardrobes, shoe cabinets and study bookshelves, as well as commercial venues including hotels and offices. With its versatile and aesthetic appeal, it conveys softness and sophistication through its authentic texture, making it an ideal versatile and durable decor choice for modern living.

TRAVERTINO

new & exclusive

Travertine is a form of terrestrial limestone deposited around mineral springs, especially hot springs. It often has a fibrous or concentric appearance and exists in white, tan, cream-colored, and rusty varieties. It is formed by a process of rapid precipitation of calcium carbonate. The latest stone decor from Germany is based on travertine marked with striking bands of assorted hues. The seemingly pitted texture gives the decor a strong 3-D look in which coarse sections alternate with finer ones.

Travertine is a stone with history. The architects of ancient Rome used it for impressive works of art. The layer composition of this decor is diverse and stripy and its natural colouring changes from light, mostly yellowish, colours to brown shades. TRAVERTINE is an elegant and timeless classic decor from Germany. Fine colored areas create a lively structure and a homogeneous image. The decor is particularly suitable for countertops, alcoves and back walls in the kitchen, and can also be used effectively in the bathroom.

ALCAMO

Alcamo travertine, also known as Travertino Alcamo, is a light beige Italian travertine quarried near the town of Alcamo in Sicily. It is used for various design applications, including floors, walls, countertops, and decorative features. The stone is characterized by its neutral, elegant color palette of ivory, cream, and gray, and can be processed into numerous finishes like honed, polished, and tumbled. In line with trends seen at the latest major fairs, Alcamo Travertine offers a contemporary and sophisticated interpretation of traditional travertine, celebrating its natural beauty while incorporating modern design elements to create a serene and eternally elegant design. A neutral color palette is employed to complement the natural beauty of travertine, with soft tones of ivory, light brown and gray that convey a sense of calm and tranquility whilst providing versatility to the spaces.

PIETRA GRECA

new & exclusive

The decor's name means Greek stone, and it's original name is DELIA. In Greek mythology, the goddess Artemis has this nickname. Not only does the decor name have Greek origins, but also the look of lamella, which is reminiscent of the fine folds of a Greek toga.

Delia's design is based on travertine limestone, which is often used to clad facades. Fine and more structured areas alternate in a balanced way. The vertical slats used allow surfaces to soar upwards and at the same time make them appear graceful and noble. The vertical grooves create an elegant play of light and shadow. The use of this special structure gives surfaces a visual feel.
